Summary

As an experienced software and mobile developer with over 8 years in the FinTech industry, I have a proven track record of creating innovative and effective solutions. With a strong background in the banking sector, I have an in-depth understanding of the unique challenges and requirements of this industry. In addition to my technical expertise, I am also an accomplished team leader with a successful track record of managing teams of 5-10 people.

I am confident that my skills and experience make me a valuable asset to any organization looking for a talented and capable software developer.
